Serious Calamity—Child Burned to Death,—Yesterday morning, about ten o'clock, the clothes of a little girl, about five years old, named Jane Joffason, whose parents reside on Race-street, below Pearl, caught fire while she was playing by the grate, and before assistance could be rendered, she was burned to death. At the time the assistance was present the worker of time the accident occurred the mother of the child was absent, in the market; but a little brother of the unfortunate sufferer ran to some of the neighbors, and assistance was rendered as soon as possible, but without being able to save her life. Her whole body was literally crisped, and she expired in a few seconds after the calamity.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT THE COURT-HOUSE—A Well-known Officer Killed by a Fall.—Yesterdsy afternoon, about one o'clock, Mr. Timothy O'Brien, well-known as an officer of the Probate Court, was almost instantly killed by falling from the bannisters of the stairway of the Court-house to the first floor. He had been frequently in the habit of starting at the second floor and sliding along the bannisters to the bottom, when wishing to bannisters to the bottom, when wishing to go down stairs; but, by some means, yester-day his clothes caught and he was hurled a distance of about eighteen feet, his head striking against the floor with such violence that his skull was literally shivered to pieces In addition to the fatal wound in the skull, his left hand was broken and several other bones fractured. Dr. Fries was immediately summoned to the place, but the wounded man expired in a few minutes after he arrived. His remains were taken to his late residence on Cutter-street, near Court. He was about thirty-five years of age, and unmarried.

CURIOSITIES OF THE CENSUS .- A great numcornostries of the Canada.—A great number of curious facts and incidents are discovered by our census-takers, many of which are well worth recording. The following have been furnished us by Mr. Tobey, now engaged in enumerating the inhabitants of the Second Ward, under the ordinance passed by the City Council:

The number of twins in the ward is seven, and of triplets one. The latter were girls, under one year old. One family contained eight boys, all born in the month of July, the difference in their ages being two years. None had ever been sick, or taken a particle of medicine.

One woman was found who was ninety One woman was found who was ninetyone years old, and who still washes for a living; she is healthy and robust, and appears much younger than she really is. She was born at a hunters' camp on the site of the present city of Lexington, Kentucky,
some years before any permanent settlement of that State had been effected. She has a very distinct recollection of being on the site of Cincinnati when it was a wilderness;
she remembers the first steamboat that ever ascended the river. She was at the time descending the Mississippi on a flatboat, and as it was during a dark night, she was badly frightened, as well as all those on the boat with her. All the stories of supernatural visitations of demons at ence rushed across their minds, for they had no doubt that this must be something of that character. She has been the mother of twenty-four children, four of whom are living. Her knowledge of ploneer matters would be valuable to any one wishing to write a history of the carly settlements of the Mississippi valley.

He also found a negro woman, a native of Porto Rico, who was taken to Maryland before the Revolution. She is 100 years of Porto Rico, who was taken to Maryland before the Revolution. She is 104 years of age, is in good health, and maintains herself by her labor.

One man, Mr. Thomas Kinsey, a silversmith, is eighty-seven years of age, and still works at his trade. He is the oldest silversmith in America, and the fasher of the Kinsey Brothers who do business on Fifthsireet.

In one locality two families were found to In one locality two families were found to occupy one room; one garret contained four families, and the cellar of the same building was eccupied by one.

Mr. Totey reports the people generally conrecous, and willing to give any information he desired. He is confident that his returns will exhibit a heavy increase on those of the United States Marshal.

Designation of the Cathotte Institute Address by Right Meverends Bishop Spaiding, Bishop Henni, and Most Reverend Aschildon Parcell England and Other Ceremonics.

The attendance at the dedication and formal opening of the Hall of the Catholic Institute, last night, was very large, notwithstanding the dismal character of the weather, which no doubt deterred many from being present. The seats, 2,500 in all, were occupied, and a large number were compelled to sand in the aisles.

A few minutes before the exercises commenced, Archbishop Purcell, followed by Bishops Spalding, of Louisville, and Henni, of Milwankie, and several prominent lay members of the Church, appeared on the platform amid loud cheers, which lasted for some minutes.

ne minutes.

The exercises were opened with an over-ture, by the orchestra, after which a festive song, written by Prof. Donald McLeod, of St. Mary's College, and translated into German by August Kost, of the Volksfreund, wassung the students of the Polytechnic College of e Institute.

An address was delivered by Bishop Spald-An address was delivered by Bishop Spalding, of Louisville, which was comprehensive in its character and appropriate to the occasion. He complimented the managers of the Institute for their taste in arranging the building, which did great credit to the Catoolics of Cincinnati, whose liberality was proverbial every-where. The objects which were expected to be attained were diverse. The gymnasium was intended to develope the muscle; the school to cultivate the mind in the sciences, poetry and the fine arts. in the sciences, poetry and the fine arts. This mingling of apparent diversities, how-ever, was necessary to form the perfect man, ever, was necessary to form the perfect man, for without all those qualities he would lack something.

The Catholic religion, he said, had been the protector of science, of architecture and of arts. The monuments still remaining of the achievements of the period known as the dark ages, sufficiently prove this. The portal alone of one structure in Amiens cost more than any entire modern edifice in existence. People did not then ask of an undertaking, "Will It pay?" in a pecuniary point of view; but they did ask whether it would contribute to the moral, social and religious elevation and regeneration of man; and he was glad to see that the same motive and he was glad to see that the same motive had governed the contributors to the Catho-lic Institute in Cincinnati. He paid a handsome tribute to music, which he pronounced a Heavenly gift. It was a happy circumstance that they had chosen St. Cecllia's day for the dedication of the magnificent hall, as it was music that sustained that holy woman in the hour of martyrdom. He said that the Catholics of this city were of every nationality; but that should not prevent the unity of feeling which should characterize members of the one holy church every-where. Then, pointing to the banner that was swung above his head, he prayed that it might never wave but over a united and a free people, with not a star blotted out or a stripe obliterated.

After another song, Bishop Henni, of Milwaukee, addressed the andlence in German. He said that it had been sixteen years since he left Cincinnati; and when he resince he left Gincinnati, and when he re-turned last night, everything was changed. The streets, the private dwellings, the houses of business, the public edifices—all were new, while the limits of the city had been greatly extended. Much of this prosperity was due to Catholics.

The Catholic religion was the protectress of poetry and the arts. Before the Reforma-tion noets were imburd with the suirit of of poetry and the arts. Before the Reformation, poets were imbued with the spirit of religion; but Schiller, a child of Protestantlsm, was constrained to ask why the heathen gods had been discarded, for the Deity of the Christian. Had he understood the Catholic religion, this would not have been the case.

Look at the triumphs of the Catholic church,
and then reverse the picture, and ask what radicalism has ever done. Catholicism radicalism has ever done. Catholicism brings peace and joy, while all other religions bring neither. He then exhorted his hearers to cultivate unity and brotherhood.

Archbishop Purcell spoke a few minutes, in reference to the affairs of Italy. If the Holy Enther, in his tributation could hat

Holy Father, in his tribulation could but look upon the scene before him, he would be comforted. He eulogized those volunteers who had left their homes to assist the Pone in his struggle with his Italian subjects, saying that they were fighting for the cause of justice, truth, honor, and religion; and such as fell, were martyrs to a glorious cause. These men, were examples which it would

These men, were examples which it would be well for the American youth to imitate. He characterized the army of Garibaldi, as bandits, and robbers, who were persecuting the Christian religion, as the heathen persecuting the Christian religion, as the heathen persecuting the Christian religion, as the heathen persecuted it in its infancy.

The following letters were received from parties who were unable to be present:

New Your, November 4, 1990.

Most Eccreved and Leon Sir. I have received your faver of the 27th ult, inviting me, in the name of the Catholics of Chelmati and your own, to be present and take part in the loanguration of their plendid building, the Catholic institute, en St. Cecilia's day, 22d inst.

I regret much that it will not be in my power to accept this kind invisation. For the last ten days I have been suffering with rheumatism, which is most annoying duries the autumn at depring of every rear.

* Nothing would give me more pleasure

annoring duries the autumn according to the more pleasure than to unite with our Episcopal brothren, and the spirited Catholics of your Diocess on such an occasion, nor could any thing less than the came I have assigned prevent me from being, on St. Cecilla's day, one of your number.

Very sincerely

Your brother in Christ

Most Rev. J. B. Parcell.

Devroit, November 16, 1860.

Most Reverend and Dair dividablespy: I duly received your very kind invisition to assist, on the 25d inst, at the inauguration of that magnificent colline, your Catholic Institute.

It would indeed, and on this occasion particularly, be my greatest pleasure to be present at that a density, and enjoy your delightful company and that of some many lishops; but I sincerely segret that, live on some previous occasion, I am again obtated to forego that pleasure; for out the 26th and 22d tests, some appointments arready shade and announced to the people will expect my punctual attendance, and on the 21st, as you know, is the antiversary of my consecration. Yours most develedly, PETER P. LEFEVER.

Bosron, November 18, 1566.

Most Rev. and very Bear Friend: Atter waiting a long time in the hope of bringing about a different issue. I am obliced at length, with much refuelance, to say that I can not be in Chrimnail on the interesting occasion of the opening of the Catholic Institute. I returned to Boston only a little more than two weeks since, after a long absence, during which affairs and gluties of effice accumitated is such a hight that I have not jot been able to make a way of careas through the heap, and I must may at home.

a way of egress through the mean, and I must say at home.

This I regret 40 much the more, because in the present situation of ecclesisatical affairs, both abroad and at home, I would have been most happy to confer with so many of my brethren of the Epicopacy, who will, I presume, meet in your hospitable manaton on the occasion.

Please offer my best wishes to the Bishops at the opening, and accept the assurance of my most sincere respect and brotherly effection.

NEWPORT NEWS. THE COMMODORE CASE.-The citizens will no doubt remember the ferry-boat Commo-dere, which for a short time, in opposition dere, which for a short time, in opposition to the Air line, plied regularly from the foot of Monmouth-street to the landing on the Cincinnati shore just above Lawrence-street. The Legislature of the State of Kentucky granted to Gen. James Taylor, the exclusive right of ferrying between Newport and Cincinnati, and when he died, the grant passed into the hands of Col. James Taylor and heirs, of whom Messrs. Air and Walls are issues. The city of Newport did not think that the of whom Messrs. Air and Walls are lesses. The city of Newport did not think that the Legislature had this power invested in it, and therefore refused permission to the awars of the farry-boat Commodors to ply between the two cities in opposition to the grant of the Legislature to General Taylor. An injunction was placed on the boat, and the case carried from one court to another until it reached the Supreme Court of the United States. The trial is set for the first Monday in December, at Washington. The decision of this Court is looked forward to unxiously, as it will be final.

COVINGTON NEWS.

The Union Merring.—This long-talkedof affair has actually died out. Why or wherefore no one can tell. Kentucky, by her late vote, has placed herself among the Union-loving States, yet, for all that, there would be no impropriety in Kenton Dounty
expressing her views of "the present state of affairs." Let there be a resurrection of the smoldering Union southments of the citizens, that they may proclaim to the world the fact that "Kenton" is perfectly sound on the Union question.
